

Thank you for Rising to the Challenge.

Everyone at the National Registry of Emergency Medical Technicians appreciates your commitment to EMS, your community and the patients you serve each and every day. With that same spirit and dedication, we are here for you as the Nation's EMS Certification organization.

ALS Redesign

How will the Advanced Life Support (ALS) Redesign affect you? Regardless of your role – as a candidate, a Nationally Registered AEMT or Paramedic, Program Director, State Official or other member of the EMS community – you will find a wealth of frequently updated information on the National Registry's ALS Redesign webpage. In addition to news and videos, the page includes an ALS Milestone Tracker so you can visualize the journey through the next several years of work on this effort.

We're on YouTube: Videos made for you

Have you subscribed to the National Registry's YouTube channel? "The Monitor" is a video series that provides hints, tips and insight to some of our most frequently asked questions. These short videos give you an opportunity to see firsthand how to create an account, find and import education for your transcript and submit your application. Additionally, you will find news updates, information about National Registry projects and webinar archives.

A refreshed support center

We recently updated our support center on nremt.org to include FAQs, guides and quick tips on the National Registry website. You can find answers to questions about Certification and Recertification, information on initial entry and re-entry to National Certification and more.

Stay in touch

Our social media channels are a great way to stay informed and in touch with the National Registry of Emergency Medical Technicians through news, program updates, and career opportunities. In addition to subscribing to "The Monitor" on YouTube, follow us on Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn.

The National Registry of Emergency Medical Technicians, established in 1970 as a non-profit organization, is the Nation's Emergency Medical Services Certification organization. The mission of the National Registry has always been centered on protecting the public and advancing the EMS profession.
